ED FOX is a native of California, where he studied to be a commercial photographer. He was frequently admonished for his focus on erotic imagery, but his passion for photography as an art form drove him to make a difference in the adult industry. Ed has already left an indelible mark with his first book published by Taschen, and will continue to delight with his second book due out this October.

MICHAEL RUBENSTEIN is an editorial and commercial photographer that lives and works in Greenpoint, Brooklyn. When not traveling the world as a professional photojournalist and amateur nomad or photographing seriously beautiful women for Inked Girls he enjoys long walks on the beach, a good steak with bourbon and his motorcycle...not necessarily in that order.
