THE WORLD'S FIRST FREE TATTOO AND PIERCING LIFESTYLE PUBLICATION

AUGUST 2007 VOLUME 7 ISSUE 11

Howdy friends, I'm glad you are reading this. We are constantly looking for new ways of expanding the circulation of PRICK to more and more people. We are now offering a downloadable file of the entire magazine that you can get at Prickmag.net. So far we are averaging 15 - 20 thousand downloads per month on top of our current printed circulation. Also, our advertisers now have a links page all their own on our Web site as well, which gets an average of 500 - 575 thousand visitors per month. We are adding new distribution points for the printed magazine every month across the U.S. and our readership is growing by leaps and bounds. We are working at a feverish pace to meet the needs of our readers and advertisers. Combined with our printed magazine, the PDF downloads, Prickmag.net and our MySpace page we are averaging close to half a million readers per month! We are also pushing towards establishing an international distribution. Stay tuned for news on that tip.

Sometimes we get mistaken as an "industry only" publication. We are not an industry only magazine and have never been. We are a magazine for the fans and the collectors of the tattoo arts as well as tattoo artists and piercers. We are first and foremost a lifestyle publication reaching hundreds of thousands of readers and fans per month. We do get into the hands of a few thousand tattoo artists and piercers like an "industry only" magazine but we reach far beyond that.

PRICK magazine, by the people for the people!

Enjoy this issue.
- Chuck B.

VANS WARPED TOUR 2007

BY LISA SHARER PHOTOS BY SYLIA HAGAR

This summer brings about the 13th year of the Vans Warped Tour, the music festival that provides punk music for the masses. Coined "Lucky 13th," this year's installment includes quite an array of musical stylings under the big punk umbrella. Also along for the ride are tattoo artists Oliver Peck, who designed this year's artwork, and Keith Underwood. Bands playing select dates include Bad Religion, Pennywise, Norma Jean, The Briggs, The Toasters, Underoath, Flogging Molly, A Static Lullaby, Circle Jerks, Alkaline Trio, Poison The Well, Pepper, and many more. Check the listings to see who's playing in your town. ★

CORNDOGORAMA

THE BROTHERS SWINKS TERRIBLE MOTOR SPORTS TERROR SHOW
LENNY'S BAR IN ATLANTA

BY JENN ALEXANDER

Corndogorama, a cherished annual event, changed venues this year, but stuck to its staples of bands and corndogs. One of the highlights of the weekend was The Brothers Swinks Terrible Motor Sports Terror Show. The Swinks brothers have been doing their stunt shows together for the past five years. This was the first show that Dustin "Dirt Leg" Swinks did without his brother Jason, who died tragically earlier this year. The festival and show were dedicated to his memory and backed by stunt masters Dustin—riding a 50 CC Honda, A.D. on a 70 CC Kawasaki, and Brad—on the four-wheeler. Their lovely assistants, Rene and Skip, made sure that the evening went smoothly. The show started with a joust on the bikes, and followed with the four-wheeler pulling "Dirt Leg" on a kneeboard over the ramp. Then came the risky attempt to jump over human bodies. Eventually, they worked their way up to five hesitant volunteers, and flawlessly cleared them all. The show was wrapped up with the daring jump through the ring of fire. It was indeed a good, and at times frightening show. ★

"My name is Violet, and I am a fetish/glamour model. I have a Web site, and I run a radio station. I'm also on the board of directors for a nonprofit organization, which raises money for almost any cause you can think of." Violet Behavior isn't kidding, she's a busy girl. Currently residing in Chicago, Violet has seen all four corners of the country, but she never forgets the small town in Tex. where she grew up. These days she spends a lot of time on the road working, promoting, and modeling. She recently said that a much needed vacation will probably include only a few photo shoots. Being that she is a girl always on the go, we were lucky enough to pin her down for a few minutes.

So, what was the small town you called home until you escaped?
The Dirty South! Beaumont, Tex. which is pretty much in Louisiana.

And recently you've been traveling a lot?
Off and on. Sometimes I can go a little while without traveling, and sometimes I'm on the road once a week. I was just in Houston, Dallas, Denver, and Miami. I'll soon be going to New York, California, and Canada.

What are some places you'd love to visit?

A ton of places! I want to go to Belize to see the Mayan ruins. I want to go to Jamaica and experience their culture and amazing music. I'd love to do some volunteer work in Kenya. I want to go everywhere!

How long do you think modeling will be a part of your life?

Until October 2009, literally. Then it will be time for the next phase of my life.

Until then, what do you want to achieve as a model?

As far as modeling, I have no set goals. I have about two years left of modeling and just want to do the best I can. That doesn't mean I'm trying to get famous or rich off of it, I just want to do it well. When I'm old I want to be able to look back on modeling as one of the most awesome experiences I have had, and I want to cherish the memories of how much fun I had with the people I met along the way. Lots of people that I otherwise would not have had the chance to meet.

How would you describe your style, and are you ever intimidated by other models?

When I first got into modeling, it was not intentional. I didn't keep up with models, and I didn't care about the scene. Because of this I had no influence, and immediately had my own style because I had nothing to copy. I keep things that way. I see models in magazines and online and such, but I don't pay attention to any of them. I'm not concerned with what they are doing, or wearing. First of all, I have friends that are models, but there is no competition between us. Second of all, I am not here to copy anyone. I don't care about the actual modeling industry, and I don't want to be a part of the social aspects of modeling. ★

TATTOO SHOW

THE 2ND ANNUAL

ICELANDIC TATTOO FESTIVAL

BY CHUCK B. PHOTOS BY CHUCK B. AND FRIENDS

Getting to go to the first annual Icelandic Tattoo and Rock Festival last year was an out of the blue, random act of God's grace. Going to the second annual Icelandic Tattoo and Rock Festival was a deeply anticipated, dream come true. The first time I experienced Iceland it was a whirlwind trip that only lasted a few days. Of those days, too many were wasted on flight delays and the actual travel time. This trip I decided to take more time and explore all that is Iceland.

Ossur and his wife Linda along with Dave Greninger once again put on an event that was nothing but first class. Shortly after getting acclimated to the time in Reykjavik, on the Thursday before the fest kicked off, I met up with the American artists that were working the show. Ossur set us up in a very well appointed apartment and left us like excited kids in a candy store to explore a bit before a very busy Friday.

We set off to the waterfront to soak in the majesty of Iceland. The huge mountains and dark blue water is a perfect backdrop to a city that looks and feels more like a resort or perfectly planned community. There are only 300,000 people on the entire island of Iceland and for the most part these islanders are smart, good-looking, and cool. Iceland is one of the most expensive places to live on the planet. Why? Because it's worth it! Reykjavik has the best aspects of the US and Europe combined, with its pristine and utterly pure environment. The ancient Viking spirit and blood line remains untainted among the people, and they are proud of it. We made our way back into the heart of the city and visited a couple of shops including Svirrir's House of Pain Tattoo, and made plans to explore some of the countryside Friday Morning.

Friday morning (after some "light" partying Thursday night) we drove off with quite possibly the craziest couple in all of Iceland, Svirrir and Dillah. We went across the narrow winding roads of rural Iceland to the continental divide and original House of Parliament meeting place. It was an amazing sight. It was sort of a mini Grand Canyon but more Lord of the Rings looking. After a few minutes of gazing we raced off like criminals on the run back to the city to set up for the show.

The festival kicked off and the artists settled into their booths. Tattoo enthusiasts and the general public began to file in at a good pace. The day grew more intense after a few live radio interviews with the artists hit the airwaves on the local rock station 97X. The buzz in the room grew louder by the moment. The enthusiasm of the tattoo collectors in Iceland is like none I have ever seen before. There seems to be a sort of cultural renaissance taking place in Reykjavik. The whole Icelandic hip scene is very arts driven, so people are getting large pieces and letting the artists be artists. Friday, the tattoo artists produced a ton of killer work, and everyone seemed pleased with the turnout. The fest closed at midnight and it was time to cut loose a little more. The nightlife in Reykjavik is world class and the locals take the party very seriously. Since it doesn't get dark in the summer the good times come to an end in the extremely A.M. hours.

Making it to the fest on time Saturday proved to be a bit more difficult than I expected and the day was even busier than I expected. The machines never stopped running and the appointments never stopped booking up. All the Icelandic artists in attendance were creating masterpiece after masterpiece, and they worked together as if they were in an art guild workshop. There were several Icelandic pride types of tattoos done by the local artists as well as a few from the Americans. Saturday ended with a bunch of aching wrists and backs. The tattooing never stopped, the awesome Icelandic hospitality never subsided and the party kept rolling throughout the entire weekend at Bar 11, the best and only real rock 'n' roll bar of Reykjavik. Sunday the artists were so booked up they had to keep tattooing after the show was over for a few days out of the local tattoo studios.

As if the amazing tattoo festival was not enough to blow my mind, I took a few more days to explore the coastline. My crazy cousins from N.C. came along for the party this year as well, so after a game of midnight golf on the tip of Reykjavik we set out on our cross country journey. The sights and landscapes of Iceland are breathtaking and extreme: beautiful waterfalls hundreds of feet tall, massive white water rivers, and glacier runoffs. Ancient lava fields from the world's largest lava flow ever recorded stretch as far as the eye can see up to massive rock cliffs and

The final leg of our road trip took us to the Glacier itself where we watched school bus size, crystal blue icebergs break off and slide into the ocean. On the way back to Reykjavik we stopped by a geyser the likes of Old Faithful and drove through miles of rolling hills and farms filled with sheep and horses. It was truly Zen-like. Then it was back to the uber-sheik city of Reykjavik for one last party. It was a truly amazing adventure. I can't even put into words how awesome everyone is that was involved in putting this festival together. I can't wait until next year's fest. It is already lining up to be even bigger and better. ★

OSSUR & LINDA

MAKING ICELAND'S
TATTOO & ROCK SCENE HAPPEN

BY CHUCK B.

Ossur and his wife Linda are the Icelandic producers and creators of the Icelandic Tattoo and Rock Festival and the owners of Bar 11 in Reykjavik. Take away world fame and a few million dollars and they are the tattoo and rock scene's David Beckham and Posh Spice of Iceland if you will. For example, if there's anything that has to do with tattoos and music in Iceland, then Ossur is the man to see. He snaps his fingers and things just seem to happen. Linda is all about high fashion and looks glamorous at all times. I think she might be the only tan woman in Iceland. As much as they are super scene-sters they are equally family oriented with five kids! They are the tattooed role models for the new breed of rock 'n' roll style Icelanders. Both Ossur and Linda have extensive, killer tattoos by American and Icelandic artists including: Jon Pall, Sverrir, (Iceland) JJ Dunbar, Santana, Bosco and Jason June (US).

Since Ossur and Linda are such an ample part of the up and coming scene in Iceland, we thought they should be part of PRICK and we should be part of Iceland. So with their help you will soon see more Iceland coverage, and PRICK will be distributed and available in Reykjavik and beyond to the United Kingdom! ★

THE 10TH ANNUAL NEW YORK CITY TATTOO CONVENTION

BY BECCA GREENWELL AND BFISCH

The Roseland is a New York City staple; a dumpy old ballroom in the heart of the city that's been housing smoky swing dances and concerts since the 1920s marking the beginning of an era. The 10th annual NYC Tattoo Convention took place on the weekend of May 18th-20th at this Manhattan landmark. Ten years into it, the promoters really had it down to a New York science, and all the freaky-freakies came out of the woodwork for the party.

Lined with dim lights along four rows of buzzing needles and several big painted Coney Island-esque freak show murals, the ballroom was the perfect place to house a convention of such nostalgic proportions. Overlooking the convention floor is the second floor lounge – a place to gather, get your drink on, and mingle. The spacious balcony wraps around the entire ballroom, providing great views of the floor below. The upstairs was also the place to get merchandise: shirts, hoodies, posters, funky-colored contacts, body jewelry, big Japanese statues and masks, Sailor Jerry goods, flash sets by artists from all walks of life, and (yes!) even flan could be purchased.

Having traveled halfway around the world, Japanese tattoo master Diau-an Chen and his entourage were having a ball in the ballroom and an amazing first trip to NYC. Tattoo guru and close friend of Chen, Horiyasu was in attendance and showing off lots of incredible work. One of his masterpieces, a 420-hour full body suit, was clearly the most impressive tattoo in the place, taking trophies in both the Best Overall Tattoo and Best Back/Chest categories. The weekend's contests were fun but standard – lots of great tattoos and lots of great tattooing.

One very special contest, and the first of its kind, was a nod to TLC's Biker Build-Off. From creator Hugh King, this was assumed to be the pilot episode of an untitled show thought to be some sort of a tattoo-off. World-class artists Mike Rubendall, from N.Y., and Bugs, out of Calif., both designed Hanya masks in four hours, each creating a similar tattoo with very different styles. Once finished, everyone in attendance had the ability to vote for their favorite. In the end, Mike Rubendall took home the victory on what will hopefully be the first episode in yet another quality tattoo television program. Keep your eyes peeled for future PRICKs with more info and articles on the series.

The contests weren't too crazy, the pieces weren't too big, but the love of tattooing was all around Times Square. Between late night karaoke on Friday and Saturday nights, a gala sushi ball, and a Broadway limo ride courtesy of Joe Lalicata, PRICK was feeling even more jazzed about all things tattoo and got to really schmooze it up with some amazing artists from all over. So many thanks to Bert

Many thanks to everyone who put this on; ten years down and going strong. PRICK couldn't have been happier with the sweatiest 2:00 a.m. hotdogs and the drippiest Hael cart that NYC could throw our way. Known for its bright lights, smoke machines and passed out people, this weekend saw the Roseland bathed in a dingy, pale yellow, familiar light. ★

HEAVY REBEL WEEKENDER

JULY 6TH-8TH, WINSTON-SALEM, NC

BY JENN ALEXANDER

The Heavy Rebel Weekender, now in its seventh year, proves to continually be a fantastic time. Three days are packed full of more than seventy music acts, contests, art, vendors, beer, and hot rods. It's an addictive, yearly event that makes you feel like you're coming back to your super-fun extended family reunion.

Included in the gambit of Heavy Rebel contests were the Wet Wife Beater, Banana Puddin' Eatin', Most Beer in 60 seconds, Mud Wraslin', Crossroads Guitar, Upright Bass Slap-down, and the Custom Car and Bike Show. Summer is the perfect time for hot car shows and this year's congregation was bigger and badder with around 111 cars and 23 bikes. Kustoms, Hotrods, Beaters and Drivers from 1968 and earlier were welcome to enter the contest. Almost all of the vehicles this year were highly customized, providing a good show for all. Another perk is that the show wasn't just for festival go-ers, but was also free and open to the general public.

Winners of the contests were: Best Motorcycle, Tina Chaney, 1973 Triumph; Best Custom, and sponsored by the Vendettas Car Club, Darren Wenzel, 1960 Cadillac; Best Hot Rod, Tommy Lumley, 1940 Chevy; Best Engine, Ron Babarino, 1951 Plymouth; and Road Devils Choice, sponsored by Road Devils C.C., Everett Miller, 1936 Coke truck. ★

TATS AND TUNES

STREET DOGS

BY LISA SHARER PHOTOS BY JENN ALEXANDER

Street Dogs, formed in 2002, have quickly become one of the best loved punk bands of this generation. With a small influence in celtic punk, the Street Dogs still have the short, fast, hard rhythms that define punk, while including the heel kicking good times that define that Irish jig. Don't be scared away, however, if that isn't your cup of tea. "We like to pride ourselves on being a little versatile," says lead singer Mike McColgan, "we can play the folk song, we can play the punk rock anthem. I don't think we want to be pigeon-holed and put in a box and told what to do...It's all about freedom."

If you recognize Mike McColgan, don't assume you know what this band is all about. When the Street Dogs began, many thought "that this would be a vanity project for Mike McColgan, the ex-lead singer of the Dropkick Murphys, that we were not legitimate and that we were trying to jump on a hot train. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Street Dogs is its own entity, its own animal. It's definitely a different band and a hard working band and a legitimate band." While the Street Dogs remain the best of friends with the Dropkick Murphys, don't mistake one for the other. Street Dogs have a different sound, and it's one worth looking into.

These Boston boys play hard, work hard, and wear their ink hard. With three of the five members showing off their body art, our camera had a time perusing the lengthy amounts of tattoos that covered McColgan, Tobe Bean, and Marcus Hollar. "I just look at [tattoos] as an artistic expression," says McColgan. "Your body is a canvas, and when things inspire you enough and move you enough, sway you enough, you feel like putting them on your arm." When asked about getting four tattoos McColgan takes the smart route, or maybe just the one that doesn't take timely routine during such a chaotic lifestyle. "I try to avoid, if I can, getting tattooed when we play, I've had instances (he points to one of his tattoos). I got this the day of a show in Europe and the color came out of it. I've found that if I get them when I'm off, they heal better and they look a little better."

Marcus Hollar's Street Dogs tattoo, bird in circle done in Dallas, "Richie" memorial tattoo by Mike Shea of Redemption Tattoo in Cambridge, Mass.

With such a wide array of tattoos, the Street Dogs are no stranger to the varieties and complexities of skin art. If you always wanted to know what kind of tattoos that adorn them then look no further. Check out which artists paint their canvases, too. ★

THE 11TH ANNUAL ATLANTA TATTOO ARTS FESTIVAL

INKING OUT IN THE DIRTY SOUTH

BY LISA SHARER PHOTOS BY SYLVIA HAGAR

Some might feel slightly intimidated when walking into a sea of half naked people covered in plastic wrap and listening to the buzzing noises flowing down the hallway. But most of us tattoo enthusiasts got that feeling of home sweet home when we walked into the 11th Annual Atlanta Tattoo Arts Festival. Hosted this year by Tony Olivas and Tom DePriest of Sacred Heart Tattoo at the Crowne Plaza, the art and culture were both flourishing for three straight days.

With over 100 world renowned artists, the Atlanta Tattoo Arts Festival has become a hotspot for picking some of the best talent in Artist to the stars and Atlanta local Todo, was on site for the weekend (who also took home Tattoo of the Day on Saturday), as well as the famous Gill Montie, and there was also quite the stir coming from the LowRider Tattoos crew who made the trek across country for this event. Whether they were quickly sketching out a piece of art or they were playing dice in the corner, all artists were enjoying themselves to the fullest.

Niko is a tattoo artist who works at and also owns Kustom Tattoo in Paris, France. A veteran of tattooing for twelve years, Niko cites "symbolism as the main source of inspiration in my artwork." His favorite subjects are the "memento mori," which are skulls enriched with various arrangements like roses, wings, and eyes. Niko opened Kustom Tattoo seven years ago and over that short time, the shop has welcomed many talented artists which Niko claims to have "boosted the inventive burst of the place." For those not lucky enough to live in Paris, you can also find Niko traveling to various conventions worldwide. Be sure and check out his portfolio that includes powerful, graphic identities using Japanese-style, Old School and even Mexican Cholos – quite an impressive array from this Parisian artist. ★

TATTOO MARTY

REFINED TATTOOS IN PALM BAY, FLORIDA

This freehand extraordinaire and now tattooing old-timer, with over twenty-seven years of experience, pushes ink under skin like none other in the southeast. You guessed it...the one-and-only Tattoo Marty. Working without the aid of a stencil allows him to provide each customer with "all original work, of course. You don't want to see the same tattoo on someone else." Ain't that right. Tattoo Marty's style ranges from super-real to ultra-fantastic, and after one glimpse it's easy to tell that you've just seen some pretty cool shit. Tattoo Marty's shop, Refined Tattoos, is located in Palm Bay, Fla. where he works with his wife and co-owner, Barbi Ross. Marty also fills the occasional guest spot in different shops around the country, so stop making excuses. ★

FUSION

Conventional (IRON) tattoo machine designs share a common problem, until now, the electrical contact point has been mounted on some sort of upright or sideplate. This design flaw simply destroys the magnetic field lines, robs your machine of it's true harmonic richness, and gives the device a lopsided feeling in your hand...

MUSIC NOTES

BANDS WORTH HEARING & SUPPORTING

INTERPOL - Our Love To Admire

Capitol Records - Interpolnyc.com

New York City's swanky hipsters return with their third album, entitled Our Love To Admire. This release finds Interpol evolving their sound, as apparent by the haunting and almost epic opening and closing tracks. The band's sound is slightly mellower and more refined, but still retains their trademark swagger. Fans won't be disappointed on standout tracks like "The Heinrich Maneuver," "All Fired Up," and "Rest My Chemistry." This is a darker yet enjoyable release from the band that has mastered the sound of passive intensity. - Stephen Jefferson

SOME MONASTERY

Welcome to the Symmetry - Somemonastery.bradwalker.org

If Beck and Lou Reed teamed up to play a joke on the music industry they might have composed this album, but I don't think anyone would be laughing. Riddled with slow, eerie grooves and somber vocals this could appeal to goth as well as indie kids. It's highly artistic and deeply disturbed. It might be the best thing since Peter Murphy went solo or it might just be a lugubrious disaster. - Patricia (Evilneedles.com)

TOMAHAWK - Anonymous

Ipecac Recordings - Ipecac.com

Fans of Mike Patton's Tomahawk won't be too surprised to hear that this album doesn't sound anything like their previous releases. Anonymous contains reinterpretations upon Native American music whose composers are unknown. Guitarist Duane Denison did the research and transcriptions. Although artistic and open to endlessly twisted possibilities, the compositions are played with genuine respect for their originals. Think world music played by an experimental metal band. This dark and atmospheric soundtrack is perfect for your next pow-wow. - Stephen Jefferson

ANN BOLYNN - Bullet Shaped Kiss

Myspace.com/annbolynn

Emo rock with heavy metal tendencies, Ann Bolynn has been rocking since 2005. Riann "Ace Bandit" Jones and Chris "Oh My" Goddard supply the vocals for every adrenaline pumping track on their full length demo Bullet Shaped Kiss. The band gives credit to fake holiday figures such as Santa and the Easter Bunny for their music influence. You've got to love a band with a sense of humor! Ann Bolynn has a flare for dark ballads like, "Aren't You Glad (I Bought You Flowers)" and title track "Bullet Shaped Kiss." Fans of My Chemical Romance and Motorhead should give Ann Bolynn a listen. - Britt Reardon

FE FI FO FUMS - Shake All Night

Boom Boom Party Records - Myspace.com/feffofums

Seattle's Fe Fi Fo Fums have a knack for quick, energetic songs of sonic chaos. The LP Shake All Night is a heavily-amplified, trash punk session of fuzzed-out lyrics and sweet one-liners, and it doesn't wear out its welcome. It's a pretty short album that leaves you ready for the next round of the same jabs. With songs entitled "My Baby's Got the Boom Boom!" and "Fuck New Wave," none are quite complete without a few "come on baby's" and heavy bass lines. Its simple structure and fun-filled party mood makes this album a good choice if you like to go Boom Boom all night! - Casheena Frison

CLASS OF 3000: MUSIC VOLUME ONE

LaFace Records - Classof3000.com

The animated television series Class of 3000, has put out the first volume of songs in one easily accessible album. If you're not familiar with the show, it stars Andre 3000 as a music teacher and a class full of talented young musicians. This first volume includes the show's theme song, songs promoting music education, and a few fun tunes for the kids. This album has all the elements that attract crowds to Outkast, while keeping it clean and fun for the youngsters. If you enjoy the music of Andre 3000, and you want to start weaning your children off the nursery rhymes and into some hip hop education, this should be your next purchase. - Happy Joe

SPOON

Ga Ga Ga Ga Ga

Merge Records
Spoontheband.com

"Thugs and stick and bats and balls / For nuclear dicks with dialect drawls / They come from a parking lot town / Where nothing lives in the sun" Ok, now sing these lyrics to a rhythm that you could do the worm to and you have the first track, "Don't Make Me a Target" off of the new Spoon album Ga Ga Ga Ga Ga. The second song, "The Ghost of You Lingers," just sounds like a boring band playing a song that was inspired by Spoon. The "music to my ears" moment would probably be the song "Underdog;" it is probably the best example of geeky white guys figuring out how to show some soul. If you have heard Spoon before, it's pretty standard; if you haven't then you should know that everyone who really loves this band should send David Bowie a personal thank you letter for his influence. Hell, while you are at it send Otis Redding's people one as well. - Garrett Range

RYAN ADAMS

Easy Tiger

Have you ever found yourself traveling from town to town on the railroad with nothing but a switchblade, your guitar and a heavy heart? Well, Ryan Adams would love it if everyone thought that is what he's been doing for the last four years. Easy Tiger is the first of his solo records that strays from that "lonely cowboy" thing, musically, and still lacks just a pinch of lyrical substance. "Tears of Gold" and "Everybody Knows" are my personal favorites off this record. It's not reinventing the wheel by any means, just a pretty catchy collection of songs. So, if you dig the idea of America hanging out with Willie Nelson and recording some tunes, you should pick this one up. - Garrett Range

CHILD BITE

Gold Thriller

Joyful Noise
Childbite.com

It's twenty minutes of mischievous disco-post-punk. And while bands like the Rapture and Beep Beep kind of trail off at times with loads of feedback and other nonsense, Child Bite stays loud and angular throughout. Quirky keyboards mingle with fuzzy bass lines and strange time signatures, as the whole fiasco is headed up by a sharp, erratic voice. These seven songs are highly energetic and danceable, I'm sure you won't hate it; you might even like it if you give it a chance. - Patricia (Evilneedles.com)

GORE GORE GIRLS

Get The Gore

Bloodshot Records
Goregoregirls.com

Here's a raunchy combo of punk-a-billy and Detroit rock. Like a baby that's been force fed motor oil and brought up on the Cramps and Joan Jett, the Gore Gore Girls spit out lo-fi, go-go boot-ed garage punk with twangy Gretsch guitars and a psycho '60s sneer. They take everything that was once wholesome about the wonder years and make it sleazy. - Patricia (Evilneedles.com)

September 1-2
DRIVE-INVASION 2007
Driveinvasion.com

With drive-ins being pretty rare these days, it's really exciting to find a good one. Every year the Starlight Six Drive-In in Atlanta, Ga. plays host to the weekend-long event known simply as Drive-Invasion. Two days packed full of bands, food, vendors, hot rods, custom cars and B movies are sure to be a good time. Get too drunk or coming from out of town? No problem: camping under the stars is now an option. This year's musical lineup includes Unkown Hinson, Jimmy & The Teasers, The Belmont Playboys, The Tremors and Gargantua to name a few. Some of the movies this year are The Big Lebowski, It Came from Outer Space, Frankenstein Island, The Young Runaways, Fast Times at Ridgemont High, and American Graffiti.

BLACK MARKET ART COMPANY

Blackmarketartcompany.com

Black Market Art Company provides big and bold tattoo design clothing for fans and collectors of the medium and its artwork. BMAC's line of clothing includes original designs by over 70 of today's top tattoo artists. Some of the contributing artists include Rich Walters, Tim Hendricks, Clark North, Tennessee Dave, and Danielle Oberosler. BMAC's designs are detailed and diverse, and include everything from Japanese to traditional styles. To show their support for the tattoo artists, every shirt has a hang tag with the artist's name and contact information. It's good to support the actual tattoo industry, and you can look hip at the same time. ★

A PURGE OF DISSIDENTS

Ipecac Recordings - Apurgeofdissidents.com

A Purge Of Dissidents is the wonderfully twisted collaboration between artist Dalek and experimental musician Haze XXL. The colorfully animated film centers on Dalek's Space Monkey creation and contains shorts entitled everything from "The Emperor Smokes Crack" to "Hippy Death Fudge." Even though the film contains maniacally violent and randomly brilliant animations, it's the soundtrack that pulls everything together. Haze XXL put together the accompanying soundtrack that is as bombastic as the animations. Haze enlisted help from fellow musicians the Melvins, Grant Hart (Husker Du), Craig Finn (Hold Steady), David Yow (Jesus Lizard), Jon Spencer (Blues Explosion), and more. A Purge Of Dissidents will also be surprisingly hitting the road, with screenings opening for the Melvins tour this fall. ★
